

In an editorial April 5 I analyzed the Kerr bill which proposed to prohibit federal regulation of the price of natural gas produced by independent companies throughout the South and Southwest, which bill had passed both houses of the congress and was then on President Truman's desk for signature or veto.

I pointed out that the big cities were fighting the bill, as evidenced by the protests of Frank Edwards, radio newscaster for the American Federation of Labor, and other spokesmen for the centers of population. It was their view, apparently, that the price of natural gas delivered to the big cities was more important than assurance of its continued production out in the remote areas from which natural gas comes.

And I reported on April 5 that it appeared likely Mr. Truman would for once listen to justice, quit playing politics, and give the producing areas that which is due them — the right to continue to conduct their business under the natural laws of supply and demand.

But I was mistaken. Saturday night Mr. Truman vetoed the Kerr bill. He said:

"After careful analysis and full consideration I believe that such an action (adoption of the Kerr bill) would not be in the national interest."

But the Kerr bill was drafted by a nationally-known Democrat, Senator Kerr of Oklahoma, who keynoted the Democratic National Convention of 1944.

It was sponsored in the House of Representatives by Rep. Oren Harris of our own Seventh Arkansas District, was supported by the entire Arkansas delegation; by Governor Sid McMath, and by the oil and gas industry of Arkansas, Texas, Louisiana, and the South and Southwest generally.

Oklahoma, of course, is most incensed of all. The Oklahoma City Oklahoman said Sunday that Senator Kerr had President Truman's approval of "the identical form and language" of the bill before he introduced it. The newspaper says, furthermore, that on two different occasions the president instructed his Capitol Hill leaders to push the bill and he would sign it when it reached his desk.

What happened? The political heat was turned on. And Mr. Truman, while he may be loyal to political henchmen, knows no loyalty to justice or fair dealing when the rights of the individual states and the sparsely settled sections of America come into collision with what he imagines to be the big city vote.

What does the White House decision on the Kerr bill mean? It means that Mr. Truman is going to weigh every proposition in terms of how it affects the big cities — regardless of what it does to the production facilities and future power and security of the United States.

We have already had a threat of this in the administration's protection of the Brannan Farm Bill, which would guarantee cheap food to the big cities and put the farm producers on a dole in order to do it.

Now we have the veto of the Kerr bill as an actually accomplished step — to guarantee cheap natural gas to the big cities regardless of what happens to capital and labor out in the sparsely settled areas where gas is found.

Of the veto of his bill, Senator Kerr himself said: "Time will prove that the consuming areas which want and need abundant supplies of natural gas will receive less gas and at higher prices than would have been the situation if the bill had been approved."

An ominous judgment — all the more so because it was a power decision of the White House against the producing facilities of America dictated solely by the vote-grabbing politics of the big cities.

And if that's the way the game is played against relatively rich oil and gas producers you can imagine what the big city politicians have in store for the relatively poor farmers.

Today the name is Kerr. But tomorrow it will be Brannan.

Door Open for Early End of Chrysler Strike

Detroit, April 17 — (P)—The door seemed open today for an early settlement of the costly, 83-day Chrysler strike.

Optimism prevailed although the CIO United Auto Workers rejected yesterday what Chrysler Corp. termed its "final" offer in the stubborn pension dispute.

As negotiations resumed today, observers pointed out that none of the six objections the UAW listed were vital issues. They also said it seemed probable Chrysler would be willing to rework parts of its proposal to get a settlement.

One thing appeared certain—that in principle the two sides are closer than at any time since 89,000 Chrysler workers walked off their jobs Jan. 25.

UAW President Walter P. Reuther underlined that point when he said after yesterday's offer:

"We are glad that at this date Chrysler has finally agreed to provide pensions for their workers guaranteed by a sound pension trust fund."

The means of financing $100-a-month pensions for workers who are 65 years of age and have 25 years' service has been the nub of the dispute.

Ex-Juror Is Suicide at Malvern

Malvern, April 17 — (P)—Less than 24 hours after he had been relieved of further duty on the vice-probing Hot Spring county grand jury, E. B. Branch, 53-year-old business man, was shot to death.

Death of Branch, who had been relieved of jury duty because of ill health was declared a suicide by Coroner R. W. Griswold. His body was found on the lawn of a Malvern funeral home early Sunday morning.

Later in the day, Circuit Judge Roy Danuser ordered the grand jury to meet again tomorrow morning. It had not been scheduled to meet until Thursday.

Judge Danuser also requested the state police to guard a witness who reported his home had been entered while he was absent.

Branch and two others, the Rev. T. K. Rucker and R. J. Buck, were excused from further grand jury duty by Judge Danuser Saturday, just before an indictment was returned against Hot Spring County Sheriff Ed Deere.

The sheriff, who was charged with failing to turn liquor confiscated in this dry county over to the state revenue department, a misdemeanor, immediately announced as a candidate for reelection.

The jury, of which Branch and the other two men were members, had indicted 31 persons, including Deputy Sheriff Clarence McCrary, Patrolman Eli Fowler and a former Malvern alderman.

New Reports of Invasion of Formosa

Taipei, Formosa, April 17 — (P)—New reports of invasion activity along the Red China coast of Luchow peninsula and Cheking province today spurred Chinese Nationalists into tightening their island defenses.

Luchow peninsula is 10 miles from Hainan second largest Nationalist island. The Reds in that area are reported grabbing all craft from wooden junks to ocean-going vessels.

Nationalist war planes have pounded the peninsula hard. They describe it as a "bee-hive of military activity."

Red leader Mao Tse-tung is reported to have set late June as the deadline for invasion of Hainan. Russian advisers are helping him, the Nationalists say.

Similar preparations were reported along the Cheking coast opposite Chshan island, important Nationalist base 100 miles southeast of Shanghai.

On Formosa itself, the Nationalists drilled 12,000 air raid wardens. Nationalists fear the ports of Kelling and Kaohsiung, vital in supply of the main Nationalist island, would be first objects of attack from the new Chinese Communist air force.

Seven thousand tons of rice, out of 30,000 tons recently bought, are enroute to Formosa from Thailand. The Nationalists also have bought quantities recently in Hong Kong, Burma and Malaya.

A Communist raid on ports would strike hard the supply lines to this isolated island.

Mercury More Springlike Over America

By The Associated Press

The spring weather is something to cheer about almost everywhere over the nation today.

The only subfreezing temperatures were in the northeastern states and along a narrow band southwestward into eastern Kentucky, where Corbin reported a low of 29 degrees.

Elsewhere, the mercury had climbed to at least seasonal levels. Most benefited area probably is the wheatland of the Great Plains where a weekend of rains had ended any further threat of widespread dust storms. The moisture was locally heavy in some parts of Kansas, Oklahoma, Colorado and southern Nebraska. Some additional rainfall was reported today in Oklahoma and eastern Texas.

A high of 84 degrees at Los Angeles yesterday sent an estimated 627,000 persons to nearby beaches.

Fulbright Would Hold Up RFC Loan

Washington, April 17 — (P)—Senator Fulbright (D-Ark) doesn't want a proposed $11,000,000 RFC loan to the Texmass petroleum corporation made until his senate subcommittee can inquire further into its legality.

The banking subcommittee, of which Fulbright is chairman, will question reconstruction finance corporation officials next week about the matter.

But the subcommittee "will be concerned if RFC officials hasten a disbursement of public funds with respect to which the question of legality has been raised," the Arkansas senator said in a statement yesterday.

At a hearing last Thursday, Comptroller General Lind say C. Warren said on the basis of his present information he would "unhesitatingly report" the proposed Texmass loan "as a transaction without authority of law."

In announcing that the subcommittee wants to make a closer investigation of the loan, Fulbright said that RFC General Counsel James L. Dougherty has indicated there is "no effective remedy available to the government in the event public funds are in the opinion of the comptroller general illegally paid out by RFC."

School Enumeration Starts Over Arkansas

Little Rock, April 17 — (P)—The annual school enumeration is underway in Arkansas.

The Funny Boys Like Hope, Benny Aren't the Only Ones to Make Money Out of Radio

By HAL BOYLE

New York — (P)—Many a youthful genius secretly fears that time will snuff him out like a candle at the age of 40.

No such self-doubt bothers Cy Howard, who at 34 is burning with a bright blue flame in the world of radio.

"I'll live to be 99 at least," he says, when friends warn he will wear himself out early.

Howard's force is comedy. He originated two of the CBS network's top shows, "My Friend Irma" and "Life With Luigi." CBS thinks so highly of him as an idea man that it pays him more in straight salary than it does board chairman William S. Paley.

In fact, Howard is reported to be the most highly paid individual in the field, except for performing stars such as Jack Benny and Bob Hope.

"I suppose that's true," he said. "I make over $250,000 a year out of radio."

There also are other trifling sources of revenue, such as a series of six movies being made around "My Friend Irma," some Luigi pictures coming up, and a third radio program he's working up.

But the cash value of his brain-power, while it pleases him, isn't the facet of his career that Howard says interests him most.

"Money? It's not important," he said in a brief hotel room interview during which he sipped his breakfast coffee before dashing off for lunch. "If you want to worry about money, you should go gold hunting in Alaska and stay there until you make a strike."

"But in a creative field, financial success can't be your chief aim."

Senate Action on Waterways Bill in Sight

Washington, April 17 — (P)—Final senate action on the $1,800,000,000 waterways authorization bill appeared in sight today, but there was a possibility it might be delayed.

This could happen should the senate decide to take up a conference report on the highly controversial basing point legislation.

Senator McCarran (D-Nev.), judiciary committee chairman, it was necessary to call up the report. He attempted to do so last week during discussion of the waterways bill, but his motion was voted down at that time.

Such a move seemed certain to meet the vigorous opposition by Senator Chavez (D-NM), chairman of the public works committee, who is anxious to get the waterways measure passed and sent to conference with the house.

The senate on Friday voted down an amendment to the big authorization bill to add $413,000,000 of irrigation projects and set up a Columbia basin account to handle finances of all power and irrigation projects in the Columbia basin.

The action came after five days of debate.

The senate committee added $475,000,000 in projects to the house-approved list and the bill must go to conference for final decision on whether they will be retained.

When the senate adjourned Friday night Senator Douglas (D-Ill) was holding the floor in his drive to eliminate items totaling about $840,000,000. He is expected to continue his opposition to the measure if it is not set aside for the basing point conference report.

If the measure is set aside the senate may not be able to complete action in it until the end of the week.

New Blood Test Is 98.6 Per Cent Accurate in Detecting the Presence of Cancer

Atlantic City, N. J., April 17 — (P)—A new blood test is 98.6 per cent accurate in detecting the presence of cancer, four researchers have reported.

The test is one of a half dozen new ones, all based on finding that cancer does something to human blood.

The hope is that this test, or one of the others, will help solve one of the most serious problems in human cancer. This problem is finding the people with cancer early enough to cure them by surgery or X-rays, the two standard cures now.

The new test was described yesterday to the American Association for Cancer Research by a team of four scientists from the University of California at Los Angeles and the veterans administration hospital in Los Angeles. They are Drs. H. S. Pe, George C. Hall, A. H. Dowdy and A. W. Bellamy.

The test mixes human blood serum with an extract from the livers of people who had cancer. The test indicates cancer if solid particles form and the cloudy solution becomes clear.

It was tested on 4,500 people. It was known that 830 of them had proved cancer. The test said "yes" on 98.6 per cent of them.

In this group, nearly 1,000 persons apparently were healthy. The test indicated cancer, maybe wrongly, in only five of them. It still is not known whether any of these five may have cancers not detectable by other tests.

Truman Hailed for His Veto of Gas Bill

Washington, April 17 — (P)—An applauding wing of his party prepared a champion-of-the-people campaign role for President Truman today on the strength of his veto of the Kerr natural gas bill.

Mr. Truman killed the bill Saturday in an action critics labeled as "purely political" and supporters said was "sound and timely."

The measure would have prevented the federal power commission from regulating the sales of natural gas by so-called independent producers, who produce 80 per cent of the product but don't operate pipelines.

Congress approved the bill despite charges by opponents that it would pave the way for an increase in the price of gas to consumers. While its proponents denied this vigorously, Mr. Truman made clear that was on his mind when he sent the bill back to congress labeled "not in the public interest."

Unless the independents are subject to federal regulation, the President said, "there is a clear possibility that competition will not be effective, at least in some cases in holding prices to reasonable levels."

Senator Douglas (D-Ill), one of the measure's chief opponents, put into words the thought of some Democrats who want Mr. Truman to array himself as a champion of the little fellow in this year's campaign for control of congress.

Said Douglas: "God bless the President of the United States. He has once again shown he is the true defender of the common people."

U. S. Abandons Search for Patrol Bomber

Copenhagen, Denmark, April 17 — (P)—The big aerial search for the U. S. navy patrol bomber which disappeared mysteriously over the Baltic sea with ten men aboard was abandoned today.

The only possible clue to the fate of the plane, last heard from a week ago last Saturday at the same time the Russians said that fighters exchanged shots with an American bomber over Latvia, was a yellow life raft found yesterday floating in the sea.

The life raft, its food container empty, was found by the little British freighter Beechland about 45 miles east of Stockholm, Sweden. The spot is 100 miles north of the Latvian city of Lepaya (Lepau) where the Soviets say their fighters chased off a U. S. bomber.

The Beechland continued on its scheduled course to the Finnish port of Kotka where it is expected to arrive this afternoon.

The derelict raft will be flown back to Copenhagen, where U. S. air force officials will examine it to determine whether it belonged to the missing plane. "Privateers" PB47. Although the Beechland radioed that the note was found on the raft, officials hope it may give up some clue as to what became of the bomber and its men.

Despite the findings of the raft on the scheduled day of an intensive search by air and sea over the Baltic — the search was called off last night. The Soviet press claimed the operation was a ruse to carry on maneuvers over the Baltic near the heavily-armed Soviet-held eastern shores.

Five Meet Violent Deaths in Arkansas

By The Associated Press

Five persons died violently in Arkansas over the weekend. Traffic accidents and fires snuffed out two lives each and there was one suicide.

Hot Spring County Coroner said the death of E. B. Branch, 53, whose body was found on the lawn of a Malvern funeral home Sunday morning, was suicide. Branch, a former resident of Pine Bluff, had been excused Saturday from further duty on the vice-probing Hot Spring county grand jury because of ill health.

A University of Arkansas student, Wayne Bulman, 20, was killed and three other students injured in an automobile accident near Fayetteville, early Sunday. Bulman was dead on arrival at a hospital. David Griffin, 20, West Memphis, was injured seriously. They were returning from a trip to Missouri.

The other traffic victim was J. S. Swint, 80, Three Creek, Ark., who was killed when struck by a car near his home Saturday.

An army enlisted man, tentatively identified as Corp. Hamilton Gibson, 25, Magalloway, Ark., died in a fire at a school building in Hot Springs early Sunday.

Chief John Crowson said he was asleep on a couch with a lit cigarette and was apparently killed by the fire.

Saturday night, Ted Watson Brinkley rice farmer, died in a fire which destroyed a watchman's shelter at the Brinkley slave mill. Firemen were aware anyone was in the building until the fire was out. A coroner said he apparently had been visiting the watchman and was asleep. It said the fire apparently started accidentally from a defective fuse.

Huge Still Is Seized, One Man Jailed

Texarkana — (P)—Dave Curtis, 43, Spring Hill man, was released under $1,000 bond following his arraignment before a U. S. Commissioner here this morning on federal charges of violating liquor laws.

Dave Curtis, 43-year-old Hope man, is being held in Miller county jail pending a hearing in federal court following a raid Saturday in which a 200-gallon copper liquor still was confiscated five miles south of Spring Hill.

Roy Turner of the federal alcohol tax unit said officers seized 600 gallons of mash and 24 empty 100-pound sugar sacks. He said two other men escaped through the woods when officers approached. Evidence showed the trio had made at least 60 gallons of liquor since starting operations.

Aiding in the raid were Lester Wilson of the tax unit, Sgt. J. H. Porterfield of Arkansas State Police and officers of the Hempstead Sheriff's Department.

Officer Saves Girl From Abductor

New York, April 17 — (AP) — A police officer saved his girl from an abductor early yesterday by breaking the door of his clothes-line bonds and shooting the assailant to death.

Patrolman Anton Stayduhar, 27, usually and dressed in plain clothes, was sitting in his car at 2 p. m., talking to Miss Ann Smith, 21, in front of her home.

The car door was jerked open and a Negro gunman shoved a pistol in Stayduhar's face saying it was a stickup.

He tied the policeman's wrists with clothes line and made him get in the back seat.

Then, according to Stayduhar, he took a long look at Miss Smith and said:

"I want you, baby."

He started the car as the girl shrieked away from him.

"I'm going to give you a show," Stayduhar said the man sneered over his shoulder.

The car had gone hardly four blocks, however, before Stayduhar wriggled free and went for the gun in his shoulder holster.

"When I got the gun out, I put it back of him," Stayduhar told his superiors.

He spotted it and threw his hands up. I did not know whether he had a gun in his hand or not.

"Then I fired."

The abductor slumped on his seat dead. The car bumped against a pole. Neither Miss Smith nor Stayduhar was hurt.

Police identified the dead man as Artus Davis, 23, of Brooklyn, and said he had a record as a wayward minor and policy game runner.

New Line in Spy Probe Considered

Washington, April 17 — (AP) — Senator Tydings (D-Md.) talked yesterday, today, of a new line of inquiry in the senate Communist investigation.

"This has nothing to do with any information Senator McCarthy has given us," said Tydings, chairman of the senate foreign relations subcommittee which is looking into McCarthy's charges of communism in the state department.

McCarthy, Wisconsin Republican, has been outlining his accusations to the inquiry committee. The committee so far has mostly just listened.

"Now we are doing some investigation, work on our own hook," Tydings told a reporter.

He declined to amplify that statement, but indicated there might be some discussion of the matter at a closed meeting of the committee today.

Yesterday the committee's chief counsel, Edward P. Morgan, served former Communist Louis F. Budenz with a subpoena, Budenz, once managing editor of the Communist newspaper Daily Worker, is scheduled to testify at a public hearing Thursday.

McCarthy has said Budenz will swear that he knew Owen Lattimore, Mar. Eastern affairs expert, to be a member of the Communist party. Lattimore, already has testimony under oath that he never has been a Communist or a fellow traveler.

Morgan handed a subpoena to Budenz at his Westchester county home near New York. Budenz resigned communism in 1945 and now is on the faculty of Fordham university.

Democracies Should Give More Attention to Religion — That Is Dangerous to Communism

By DeWitt MacKENZIE

AP Foreign Affairs Analyst

Religious discussions are tricky ground for those of us not schooled in theology, but even a layman finds meat for comment in the English clergyman's claim that the ten commandments shouldn't be shown to children because the youngsters might get the wrong idea about God.

The vicar presumably meant the commandments shouldn't be shown without adequate explanation. Anyway this matter cropped up in an English town at an education committee meeting which considered a proposal to post the commandments in a school to combat a "decline in moral standards" among the children.

The clergyman objected that this would be misleading, and cited the second commandment which speaks of a "jealous God" who visits fathers' sins upon their children. He said "no decent father would do such a thing."

Well, well, how things have changed since we were young. They weren't afraid in those days that we would misunderstand the language of the commandments. However, maybe I'm being old-fashioned again. I have some young folks at home who sometimes have to remind me:

"But daddy, things aren't the same now as when you were a boy."

Anyway the school committee rejected the proposal, and we can applaud that decision, though not for the reason given. At this distance the idea of displaying the commandments like political posters seems very far-fetched. Surely there are better ways of dealing with such a difficulty.

However, the objection that the children would misunderstand the commandments certainly gives rise to the query of whether present day youngsters — be they in Britain or in America — are attending religious classes in connection with their places of worship, or wherever religious instruction is given. It seems shocking that children who are old enough to be involved in a "decline in moral standards" shouldn't have the fundamental portions of their Bibles interpreted for them.

So far as concerns that second commandment, the first Biblical quotation I ever learned, at the age of five, was "God is love." That was true of most children then. It's true their elders see that the children do get started.

You probably are asking what religious education has to do with garments of blue and emerald, of rose and purple and scarlet—the colors very often mingled in one costume—their dark heads bound with equally brilliant silken scarves, and bands of sequins—sat or reclined, or bent down to exchange laughing salutes with the white-robed men who passed or paused.

Unveiled women, with painted faces and eyes heavy with kohl; bold challenging eyes and teeth that flashed like the jewels they wore so plentifully.

Clemency was still watching this strange musical comedy scene when a voice spoke beside her:

"Excuse me butting in, but I shouldn't go down there."

She turned quickly, and found herself staring up into the good-looking, rather embarrassed face of the speaker.

"The young man in the gray suit swept off his hat. 'Please forgive me,' he apologized. 'I assure you I'm not trying to be fresh, but—you're a stranger around here, I guess, and—there are some parts of the town a lady shouldn't explore—anyway, not alone.'

"And not always in company, I gather," said Clemency coolly.

"Thank you. But as a matter of fact I wasn't going to explore." If she was inexperienced she had read widely, and she guessed that this was the street of the dancing girls, though it had not occurred to her at once. Then: "Please don't stand in this sun without a hat," she begged quickly. "It's getting too hot to be out in it at all. I am going back to the hotel now."

His concern for her had been obviously so genuine that she felt it would have been absurd to be stand-offish.

"And thank you very much," she said with a friendly smile.

"Thank you," he stressed the pronoun, and then a hint of mischief in those very pleasant hazel eyes: "Particularly for not freezing me with a well-bred British stare."

She laughed outright. "Really?"

He laughed outright. "Really?"

He laughed outright. "Really?"

He laughed outright. "Really?"

Program for ORC Improved Considerably

Details of a new Army Organized Reserve Corps program designed to bring about a material improvement in the efficiency and readiness of the reserve were announced today by Secretary of the Army Gordon Gray. Preliminary plans for an improved Organized Reserve Corps program were first made public last January 18, by the Department of the Army.

Units in Hope that may be affected by the New Organized Reserve Program are: Headquarters and Headquarters Battery, Commanded by Lt. Victor H. Cobb; Service Battery, Commanded by Captain John V. Keefe; Battery "A", Commanded by Captain Forey G. Holt. These units are a part of the 79th Field Artillery Battalion which is presently commanded by Major Royce S. Weinberger. The other units in this battalion are located in Texarkana and Ashdown.

Implementation of the new program will be accomplished as fast as funds and personnel participation permit. The provision of essential training equipment and armories are likewise dependent on availability of funds and personnel participation.

Salient features of the new program are establishment of a firm troop basis, provision for progressive and efficient training, establishment of a sound promotion system, provision for adequate training equipment and simplification of the organizational structure.

Under the new program, the Organized Reserve Corps will have three principal parts: The Active Reserve, The Inactive Reserve, and the Honorary Reserves.

In the Active Reserve will be two groups of personnel: (1) Those in the Organized Reserve, which will include all members assigned to troop basis units plus personnel needed upon mobilization to augment Regular Army units and staff agencies, and (2) The Volunteer Reserve consisting of individual officers and enlisted personnel needed to increase the Army of the United States in the event of mobilization.

The Department of the Army has established a minimum strength of 307,000 officers and men. This figure calls for one hundred per cent officer strength and a minimum of cadre enlisted personnel for required units.

Under the minimum plan, the organized reserve portion of the active reserve will include mobilization troop units, and 25 cadre divisions (17 Infantry, 3 Armored and 5 Airborne); non-divisional table of organization and equipment units (units having combat and service type units, and tables of distribution units, required for mobilization, expansion and augmentation personnel.

In addition to the requirements in units and personnel of the organized portion of the Active Reserve, there is a minimum requirement for the Army of the United States on M-day of some 130,000 officers and about 200,000 enlisted men. This group will constitute the Volunteer Reserve.

All present units that have not been included in the new program as of December 31, 1950, will be designated as training units or discontinued and personnel transferred. All units of the

The communists themselves recognize religion (any type of religion) as one of the greatest dangers they face in their drive to communize the world. They are fighting it tooth and nail, just as Hitler fought it before them. They recognize that communism and religion are incompatible.

Because they do regard religion as so dangerous to their cause, the Communists have developed a special technique in dealing with it. They concentrate on the young folks, on the basis that the youthful mind is more easily molded.

Thus we see that in all the satellite nations the new generation is being reared in atheism. That is one of bolshevism's main assets.

This Red attention to youth is one of the things which the democracies can copy with profit. Catch 'em young—very young.

organized Reserve will be required to obtain a cadre strength within 9 months from date of inclusion in the new program.

Reserve duty training pay for other than fully organized units is to be made available on an individual participation basis. Personnel in the volunteer reserve are eligible to earn authorized retirement and retention points.

Location of the home station of units will be based generally on geographical distribution of reserve personnel; military age, population in the area; ability of the location to support units; location of other reserve components of the Army and other services, and the availability of adequate training facilities.

As the program develops, a plan will be put into effect which will make it possible for area commanders to control the distribution of equipment so that it may be used to the best advantage in training. Each Reserve Unit will report the equipment actually needed for training purposes. These reports will be examined by

Unit instructors, consolidated semi-annually by the Armies and the reports forwarded to the Department of the Army.

On the basis of these reports, available equipment will be allocated to Army Commanders. This will insure that each unit receives its proportionate share of available training equipment, enable area commanders to control distribution in a manner commensurate with training needs, and provide maximum economy and utilization of personnel.

A total of 3,700,000 square feet of Armory and Storage space will be required when the program is fully implemented. The Department of the Army has already announced that $13,000,000 will be spent on a new reserve armory construction program in 21 states. This will not preclude joint utilization of facilities by all reserve components, with leasing of adequate facilities where armories are not available.

Mrs. FDR'S Sunday Show Turned Into Verbal Battle

New York, April 17 — (AP) — Mr. Franklin D. Roosevelt's Sunday television show turned into a verbal free-for-all when Maj. Gen. Patrick J. Hurley attacked the late President's Yalta conference.

The general, a wartime and post-war ambassador to China and President Hoover's secretary of war, blamed "a secret agreement at Yalta" for the Chinese Communist sweep.

His charge and further arguments drew heated replies from his hostess, who was backed up by the three other guests on the NBC forum program.

Williams-Coleman Nuptials Heard In First Baptist Church

In a beautiful candlelight ceremony at five o'clock Sunday afternoon Miss Phyllis Williams, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jett Williams, Sr. of this city, became the bride of Granville Otis Coleman, son of Mr. and Mrs. James Otis Coleman of Prescott. Floor baskets of white gladioli, stock and gleaming cathedral tapers in wrought iron branched candelabra against a background of woodwardia fern decorated the altar. The choir rail was entwined with huckleberry. The aisle down which the wedding party proceeded was lighted with pew candelabra holding white tapers tied with a single calla lily.

The Reverend S. A. Whitlow, pastor of the church, read the impressive double ring ceremony before the central arrangement of calla lilies interspersed with lighted tapers to the soft accompaniment of organ music played by Luther Hollamon, Jr.

Preceding the ceremony, Mr. Hollamon played a program of nuptial music and accompanied Thomas Lavin of Atlanta, Tex., who sang "Through the Years," and "The Lord's Prayer." The traditional wedding marches were used as processional and recessional.

Misses Suzanne and Sonya Somerville, neices of the bride, lighted the candles to the organ selection "Ah Sweet Mystery of Life." They wore floor length models of Seaford organically over taffeta fashioned with shirred bodices, round yokes puffed sleeves and bouffant skirts. Dandaeus of pink Cecil Bruner roses were in their hair.

The bride was preceded to the altar by her sister, Mrs. W. M. Shackelford of San Antonio, Tex., matron of honor. She was gown in seaford green starched sheer overtaffeta, fashioned with portrait neckline, fitted bodice, buttoned to the waist with self covered buttons. The full flowing skirt was accented with a bow drape at the waistline. The neckline formed short sleeves which were completed by mits of the same material. She wore a matching maline hat and carried a maline basket of Poincettia roses.

The bridesmaids, entering by twos, were: Betty Robins, Mary Jane Coleman, sister of the bridegroom, of Prescott, Mary Roy Moses of Marianna, and Mrs. Jud B. Martindale of New Orleans. They wore camellia pink gowns fashioned like that of the matron of honor, matching hats and also carried maline baskets of Poincettia roses. The bride, was radiant in her lovely wedding gown of white organza designed with a yoke of imported silk illusion, with an Alencon lace scalloped capelet effect embroidered with seed pearls, long-fitted petal point sleeves, buttoned to the elbow with self covered buttons, with plume of matching lace and seed pearls over the filmy yards of organza which formed the full length skirt ending in a long train.

Her headdress of Alencon lace embroidered with seed pearls, was fastened to a finger-tip veil of imported silk illusion at the back of her dark hair. Her only ornament was a diamond lavalliere, belonging to her mother.

James Otis Coleman served his son as best man. Groomsman were: George Pakis of Hot Springs, Warren Porter of El Dorado; Phil Wilson of Little Rock, and Al Williams, brother of the bride of Hope.

For her daughters wedding, Mrs. Williams wore a navy crepe with navy accessories and a corsage of vanda orchids. Mrs. Coleman, mother of the bridegroom, chose an aqua lace with pink accessories and her flowers were pink rosebuds.

For the nuptial blessing, the couple knelt on the white satin covered kneeling bench.

A reception was held at the Williams home on South Elm, immediately after the ceremony. Greeting the guests at the door was Mrs. W. A. Williams. In the receiving line was Mrs. Jett Williams, Sr., Mrs. James Otis Coleman, the bride couple, matron of honor, and the bridesmaids.

On the living room mantel, a fan shaped arrangement of stock and white gladioli were reflected in the mirror. In the family sitting room were arrangements of white snapdragons. Mrs. Doyle Willis, sister of the bride, of Texarkana presided at the guest book. Extending courtesies in the living room and sitting room were Miss Dove Knott, Mrs. John Vesey and Mrs. Brents McPherson.

The brides table laid with a white net cloth was centered with the three tiered wedding cake, topped with miniature bride and groom, and encircled with miniature simlax and white bridal flowers. Crystal epergne's filled with white bristal roses, candytuft and tall white tapers were at each end of the table. Light from the burning tapers gleamed on the brides confection embossed with white roses, garlands of miniature simlax edged the table.

The buffet held an arrangement of stock, candytuft, gladioli, and snapdragons in a China bowl flanked on each side with China candleholders holding white tapers.

Mrs. O. L. Gibson assisted Mrs. Frances Sue Somerville, in serving the cake Presiding at the punch bowl at the side table was Mrs. Jett Williams, Jr. of Dallas.

Miss Katherine Harrell, Lewisville, Miss Ella Hubbard Scaife, Eudora; Miss Rose Emrick of Tyranna, Ark.; Miss Mary Lou Moore, Mrs. Milton Eason, and Mrs. Raymond Jones assisted in the dining room.

Mrs. David Lee Williams of Sterling, La. stood at the foot of the stairway and invited the guests up to the gift rooms where Mrs. W. M. Ramsey, and Mrs. Thelma Moore extended cour-

DOROTHY DIX

Girl's Problem

Dear Miss Dix: What do men want? How can a girl know how to please them? You go out with one man and let him kiss you and he calls you cheap and easy and doesn't date you any more. You go out with another man and don't let him kiss you and he does not date you any more. That are we poor girls to do?

PUZZLED ONE

Answer: You might try just being yourself and establishing your own code of conduct and living up to it. Then you would attract the men that like your type and you would be much more apt to make a hit than you are when you attempt to be whatever you think a man wants you to be.

A girl saves a lot of wear and tear on her constitution by not trying to be a yes woman and changing her morals and her manners to correspond with those of every boy who comes along.

Loses Individually

When she does this she throws away the most attractive quality that any human being can possess, and this is personality. She becomes nothing but a rubber stamp, with nothing to distinguish her from thousands of other girls. There is nothing distinctive about this mass-production type of girl that makes a man feel he prefers one above another.

But the girl who doesn't pretend to be what she isn't, who has her convictions that she abides by, who has views that she holds to has individuality. She stands out from the herd. She makes a man notice her because she is different. She makes a man feel that she is worth while and worth having. She isn't just a rag doll that he will throw away as soon as he is tired of playing with her.

So my advice to you is not to try to please very man. Please yourself. You will find that it pays better in every way. And don't forget that not every man likes the same kind of girl. There are plenty of men who prefer girls who refuse to pay for a date by letting men paw them over.

Dear Miss Dix: have been engaged for almost three years to a man who has splendid principles but a disagreeable disposition and I live in constant dread of doing something that he can find fault with or be suspicious of. Sometimes I think he is wonderful and at other times I almost hate him, but I can't seem to break with him. My father died recently, leaving my mother and little sister dependent on me. I have a splendid position; in fact, make more than my fiancé, although he has a good, substantial income. As things stand, I will have to keep my position for the next ten years if I want to be independent of outside help. Of course, no man would wait that long for me. My fiancé urges me to marry him, saying that he can support all three of us, but I know better.

What do you think would be the best thing for me to do, considering that the young man's disposition has already made me doubtful of the wisdom of marrying him?

Answer: The man whose mind is filled with petty jealousies and suspicions, who is so evil-minded himself that he attributes his own unworthy motives to every one else, will be doubly and trebly suspicious of his wife and make her life a burden to her with his spying upon her. I can see no happiness in marriage with a selfish, jealous, grouchy man, and if anything comes up to keep you from marrying such a one, regard it as the work of your guardian angel and return thanks accordingly.

It is highly desirable, of course, that a man should have good principles and be a go-getter, but the thing that makes or mends his wife's happiness is his disposition. That is what she has to live with, and whether a woman is happy or miserable depends upon her husband's attitude about the little common, everyday affairs.

As for your not being willing to dump your mother and sister down on your husband to support that shows the right spirit; and while your fiancé may say that he would be willing to take care of them, regard them as a burden and make you very unhappy over the situation.

Dear Miss Dix: In a recent class discussion the subject of adopting children came up. We were unable to decide whether an adopted child should be told of its adoption or not. What is your advice on this matter?

THE CLASS

Answer: An adopted child should always be told of its adoption. It is told while it is so young that the knowledge makes no particular impression on it. It just becomes a familiar fact. No sense of degradation goes with it. The child may even be proud of it. In the case of one little fellow who boasted to his playmate that while they were wished on their parents, his mother mother and father picked him out. (Released by the Bell Syndicate Inc.)

school, here last week. Blevins, ners were shared by Yerger and won every event.

The Yerger Senior and Junior girls won two places.

The most outstanding athlete of the day was Robert "Speedie" Phillips. He won the 10 yd. run, 220 yd. run, anchored for the 440

Texarkana to Play Legion Here Tonight

The Hope Legionnaires will entertain the Bears of Texarkana tonight at Legion field starting at eight o'clock weather permitting.

Legion officials said today the game would be played, providing it didn't rain between now and game time. The field is in fair shape now despite rains Sunday.

Of the season. They have only played one game which they dropped to the Stout Bathers of Hot Springs.

Although not expected to win against the powerful Bears, the local boys are capable of giving out with some strong competition and a victory is not too unlikelily.

Texarkana opens regular league play tomorrow. Hope's regular play opens here Friday night, April 21, against Gurdun.

Big Leagues
All Set for Openings

By JACK HAND
New York, April 17 — (AP) — Big league baseball returns tomorrow with all 16 "contenders" poised for the openings after a healthy talent turnover.

Now we'll get first hand proof on who outdistanced whom in the New York Giants-Boston Braves deal. We'll see if Detroit is as good as it looks. If the "experts" were right in predicting a Brooklyn
Dodger-Boston Red Sox World Series.

It will be a strange opening day. No Hal Newhouser pitching for Detroit. No Bobby Feller for Cleveland. No Rip Sewell for Pittsburgh.

Newhouser is out with arm trouble.
Feller has been bypassed for Bob Lemon. Sewell, winner of 10 straight openings, is managing in the minors.

Joe DiMaggio, usually a Johns Hopkins hospital patient at this stage of the game, will be in center field for the New York Yankees. The Yankee clipper missed nine of 14 previous openings.

Sid Gordon, Willard Marshall and Buddy Kerr — three boys who never played for any big league club except the Giants — come to the Polo Grounds as enemy Boston Braves. Alvin Dark, hoisted from a college campus by the Braves, will be playing on the other side for the Giants.

Two old friends are back as managers. Bucky Harris at Washington and Luke Sewell at Cincinnati. Both are consigned to last place or thereabouts.

SPORTS ROUNDUP

By Hugh S. Fullerton, Jr.

New York, April 17 — (AP) — All baseball fans know that before the season starts, sports writers have to pick the pennant winners — willingly or otherwise. . . They also know that pride goes before a fall and a little knowledge is a dangerous thing. . . So, without further ado, we give you the Red Sox and Dodgers for 1950. . . (We were lucky enough to hit the winners last year). . . The Sox couldn't come much closer than they have the past two seasons. And this time we figure the Yanks have the past two seasons. And this time we figure the Yanks have reached the stage where a Branch Rickey would be selling off stars before they obviously lose value.
. . . Tommy Honrich's recent aches and pains are evidence. . . Maybe Boston is at the same stage, but will have one last shot and will succeed. . . The Bums should be age and the rebuilt Braves haven't are due to fade with increasing age and the rebuilt Braves haven't entirely escaped from last season's troubles. . . So who else can you pick but Brooklyn?

Dois All, Brothers

If you like mysteries with your derby selections, lip-tattoo numbers are Bed O'Roses, C4003; Mid-dleground, C3830; Oil Capitol, C.
2537; Hill Prince, C4045; and Your Host C-4140. . . Try them on your telephone dial sometime and see if you get a winner. . . McMurry college football followers figure 215-pound Floyd Sampson is as good a fullback as Brad Rowland is a halfback. That's the highest, possible praise. . . Michigan State came up with a new, and less bulky, set of blocking dummies for spring football practice. . . Coach Bigger Munn took one look and yelled: "Get out those old dummies, the heavy ones. We play Minnesota next fall."

All Was Con-Fuchs-Ion

Jim Fuchs, Yale's world-record shot putter, was visiting Pelham, N. Y., the other day when he noticed a couple of kids practicing his favorite event on the high school field. . . Jim quietly stroled over and began to roll the iron ball back to them after each toss. . . Then, unable to resist, Fuchs asked the coach if he'd have a try. . . "You'd better be careful," one of the high-schoolers put in. "You can hurt your arm this way." Jim just picked up the 12-pound shot and heaved it about 65 feet, then stroled d away while the coach and the kids almost fainted.

Monday Matinee

Charles J. Harley of Chicago, newspaper of Ohio State's immortal Chic, is a halfback candidate on the Buckeye football squad. . . Bob Jones' father, big Bob, still is remembered as one of the best outfielders ever to play for the university of Georgia. He was right elder on the 1889 team, coached part of the season by H. H. H. J.
Jennings. . . Six members of the Alabama football squad are currently members of the baseball team. Five of them, all ends, are right-handed pitchers. . . Three

Atlanta, April 17 — (AP) — After marching through Georgia Jimmy Demaret headed today for Vir-battle to overtake Sam Snead as the top golf money winner of the year.

Jimmy, who unlike most professional golfers enjoys living when he is winning, finished a minor size grand slam in Georgia yesterday with a victory in the North

Premature Release of Data Halted

By FRANK CAREY
AP Science Reporter
(For James Marlow)

Washington, April 17 — (AP) — The atomic energy commission's latest keep-mum message to its workers is somewhat vague, but it seems to boil down to this: The AEC doesn't want its hired hands to talk publicly about even non-secret stuff on reactions involving hydrogen if they relate those reactions in any way to the so-called "super bomb."

It's okay to speak about such reactions in an academic way — presumably in the same way they might discuss the theory of relativity. But please, boys, says the commission, don't hook these reactions up with a hydrogen bomb.

"The purpose of the commission's request on this matter," the agency says, "was to avoid release of technical information which, even though itself unclassified (non-secret), might have been interpreted by virtue of the project connection of the speaker as reflecting the commission's program with respect to hydrogen-clear (hydrogen bomb) weapons."

When the commission announced it had made this "request," it didn't say whether any of its staff had been speaking out of line.

Later a reporter recalled that shortly before the "request" an AEC staff scientist had talked to some Washington school teachers and said:

1. There are no theoretical limitations on the size of an H-bomb, although there are "practical limitations."

2. No one knows whether the idea of an H-bomb can be worked out, but if it can it might be possible to explode tankers filled with deuterium in a harbor, using an A-bomb as a detonator.

3. If an H-bomb were worked out—and a person were able to dig a hole of "unimaginable size and depth in the earth" and assemble enough hydrogen material in it—it might be possible to tear a moon-sized chunk out of the earth.

The scientists later told a reporter that this example was just an "oratorical exaggeration" to press home the point that there's no theoretical limitation on the size of an H-bomb. He said the "practical limitations are so enormous as to be insuperable."

The scientists stated that anything he said was based on published literature and not any information supplied by the AEC.

When a reporter wanted to know what literature the scientist listed, a weekly news magazine (Time), a monthly magazine (Scientific American) and an article in the United Nations World.

The AEC declined to confirm or deny any of the statements made by its staff scientist.

After the commission sent out its keep-mum request to its workers, a reporter asked whether the scientist's talk had brought it about.

No, said the AEC — "the request would have been sent out whether or not he had made the talk."

Was the scientist's talk the sort of thing the AEC was trying to avoid?

All the commission would was this: "Any statement relating unclassified (non-secret) information to weapons would not be regarded as being in an appropriate area for comment under the language of the request."

Vatican Denies Agreement With Poland

Vatican City, April 17 — (AP) — The Vatican press office denied today that the Roman Catholic hierarchy of Poland has signed an agreement with the Polish Communist government. Warsaw announced such a pact Saturday.

A Vatican press office statement said "nothing is known here of any such agreement. The circumstances and contents of the record in question (as reported in Warsaw dispatches) preclude any foundation to the news."

Vatican sources pointed out that the accord was announced after Poland's leading Catholic prelate, Adam Stefan Cardinal Sapieha, had left the country. The cardinal, now in Rome, declined comment on reports of a Polish church-state accord.

A high Vatican source said if such a pact had been promulgated, it would indicate that the Polish government had laid down a "way of death" for the church there. This source, who holds the title of canonical consultant of the prewar Polish embassy at the Holy See, questioned whether Catholic bishops would sign such a pact.

The Polish government announcement said three bishops had signed an accord in which religious freedom in Poland was promised in return for a church pledge to fight the enemies of the Warsaw region. The controlled Polish News agency said the agreement was signed by the Suffragan bishop of Warsaw, Zygmunt Choromański, as secretary of the council of bishops, and two other bishops.

"Dead as a dodo" refers to a clumsy cousin of the pigeon that was three times the size of a turkey and lived on the Indian Ocean Island of Mauritius until three centuries ago. The dodo—a name derived from the Portuguese word for simpleton—could neither fly, fight nor run away.

During the business session Mrs. Hirst and Mrs. Dallas Atkins were elected delegates to attend the state convention of music clubs to be held in Little Rock on April 23-24. The president, Mrs. James V. McMahon, announced that a group of members will present the program for the Friday Music club of Hope on April 27. Mrs. Lucille Elgin was introduced as program chairman and she told interestingly of the life of the late German composer, Richard Strauss, and his contribution to opera. She concluded the year's study of opera with facts about Herbert, the Irish cellist who later became conductor of the Pittsburgh Symphony.

Following the study two vocal duets, "Kiss Me Again" and "Because You're You" were sung by Mrs. L. J. Bryson and Mrs. Joe R. Hamilton. Mrs. Warren Cummings accompanied at the piano.

The program was concluded with a piano solo, "Tales from the Vienna Woods" by Johann Strauss played by Mrs. A. Dudley Gordon.

U. S. Mission Soon to Be Sent to Iran

Washington, April 17 — (AP) — A U.S. survey mission soon may be sent to strategically important Iran — now in the grip of an economic crisis and rising Red pressure. The big question: What, if anything, can America do?

No on-the-spot study has been decided upon yet, it was said. However, Secretary of State Acheson is reported deeply concerned over the Iranian situation and has assigned it a high priority among the urgent problems under department consideration.

The situation is complicated by the fact that Iran, along with Greece and Turkey, is on the front line of the cold war in the oil-rich Middle East. It is under constant Russian propaganda pressure from the outside while a Communist political group, the Tudeh party, is gaining strength inside. For many months, the state department has considered that conditions in Iran were stable and the country need not be a source of major worry to American cold war strategists. That situation began to change about the first of the year, when a series of alarming reports began pouring in to Acheson from the American ambassador to Tehran, John C. Wiley.

A month ago, in order to get a new look at the situation, the state department sent William M. Roundtree, deputy director of the office of Greek, Turkish and Iranian affairs to Iran to investigate and report back here. He returned here last week.

Mrs. W. R. Hambright has returned from Dallas where she has been visiting Mr. and Mrs. Jimmie Hambright and Paul Hambright.

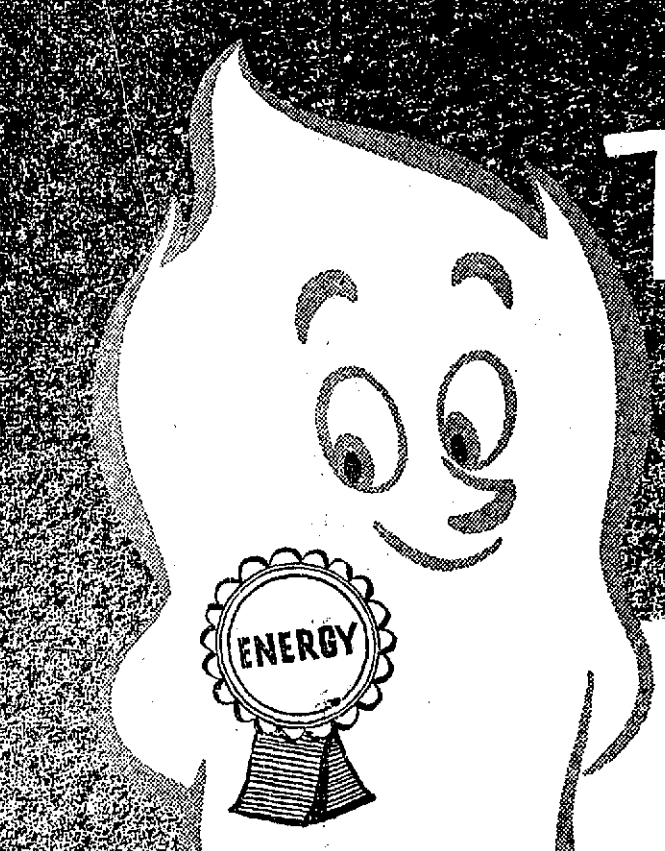

Dr. E. D. Jones attended the Chiropractors State convention that met in Little Rock, Wednesday and Thursday.

R. P. Hamby attended the annual convention of the Arkansas Historical Association that met at Henderson State Teachers college, Arkadelphia, Friday and Saturday. Mr. Hamby spoke on "My Friend", Governor McRae.
